3. PUBLIC COMMENT

Jose Espinoza, CSULB student: voiced concern regarding inconsistent enforcement of the required Covid pre-screen and mask mandates. An invitation was also extended to board member to attend a Religious Studies Student organization meeting. jose.espinoza03@student.csulb.edu

Stephen Lyons, CSULB student: voiced concern regarding plagiarism violations for Dr. Goldstein's CECS 328 students. Students who've been charged are not allowed to know violation specifics, and aren't allowed to present reasonable evidence for their work. Also, students are not being allowed to receive tutoring.

Carlos Orozco, CSULB student: voiced concern regarding the unbalanced dispersement of the $600,000 ASI scholarship budget where more than half goes to Athletics.

Miguel Echeverria, Anthony Nasser, Andy Zhou, ACM and Computer Science students: voiced concern regarding CECS 328 students who are being prohibited from receiving tutoring, and collaboration is not allowed on course assignments which is an essential skill needed for the field. Also, faculty are not meeting with students who've been charged with plagiarism violations.
